POLITICAL SPEECHES

There was another free-for-all political combat at the corner of Hotel and Bethel streets Saturday night-a war of words that lasted until a late hour Nakookoo, a Kuokoa, was the chairman. Wm. Olepan of the Republican party opened the debate, speaking in both the English and Hawaiian languages. He was jeered at by some of the Home Rulers in the crowd but he beld his own and had his say out to the very end. Next came a Kuoakoa who said that the Republicans were the ones who had furnished work for the men of Hawaii.
